Probably Seven Hundred Lives Lost-Area of Burned Territory-Further Detalls of the Disaster.

DULUTH, MINN., September 4.-In a stretch of territory twenty-six miles long and from one to fifteen miles wide not a single human habitation has been left standing, except a section-house at Miller, and in every part of the track of the flames bodies of men, women, and children, horses, and cattle were found. The position of everybody found outside of Hinckley shows that shelter of some kind was sought by the agonized sufferers, and the dead are found in holes, behind overturned stumps, trees, marshy depressions, and in every water-course.

COMPLETE AND CYCLONIC. The general shape of the fire-swept district is like a huge cigar, with a southwestern end about Mission creek, and the upper terminal, a few miles east of Finlayson, or Rutledge. From this a number of branches extend northward to beyond trucks of the Eastern Minnesota railway. work of the flames has been comte and cyclonic in character. if fire held sway not a single tree is nding except as a blackened stump. reasing except as a blackend stomp.

Thin sands of everturned trees are lying prostrate, and the roots were burning seriely up to last evening, when the welcome rain fell. A careful canvass reveals the fact that 72 settlers' homes, outside of towns, fell. As near as can be learned there were 500 people in these homes. REFUGE IN A CREEK.

At Brookdale, a little town on the Eastern Minnesota railroad, south of Hin kley, about ninety persons took refuge in the water of a small creek. of this place seven dead bodies were taken and buried, and some thirty living persons were rescued, some badly burned. All the bodies were carefully examined, and in many cases were fully described by the seven as the seven were the seven as the seven when the seven were the seven were the seven as the seven between the seven were the seven as the seven between the seven were the seven as the seven between the seven were the seven t identified, and in every case a com-record was made of everything that possibly lead to identification. Remarkable work has been done by the Duluth relief committees.

OVER 650 ARE DEAD. OVER 650 ARE DEAD.

The death-roll is on the increase, and now over 650 are known to be lost, the greater part women and children. The greatest percentage of deaths occurred among settlers, where whole families were swept out of existence in the twinkling of an eye. Not in any one direction, but in every part of the fire-swept district the finding of bodies hourly swells the list, at an early hour this morning a party of thirty experienced woodsmen left on special conveyance to scour the woods for bodies of settlers in out-of-the-way cabins and clearings. They are expected to bring-back appalling reports.

CARING FOR THE LIVING.

CARING FOR THE LIVING. Hundreds of people, including those of ne very highest social standing in this city, have been working day and night since Saturday night, have organized thoroughly into all needed sub-committees, and have in a systematic way taken care of men, women, children, and bables, several committees have been caring for little ones. Looking After the Injured. HINCKLEY, MICH., September 4.-The special train sent out by citizens of Min-neapolis, bearing supplies and medical re-lief to the suffering people of Hinckley and vicinity, had on board eleven physicians and surgeons, with a full supply of drugs and instruments and fifty canvas cots. Pine City was the main objective point, for it was there that the relief supplies were to be distributed and the temporary hospitals had been opened. The medical committee were met at the depot by the heroic wife of Dr. Barnum, the local phy-sician, who, with her husband, had been working day and night from the time the first victims were brought in until both were almost completely worn out. "Oh, we're so glad you've come," almost sobbed the little woman to Dr. McDonald as he stepped from the train. A PITIFUL CROWD.

The platform was crowded with inquisitive but glad-looking people, with black-ened and scarred faces and bandaged hands and arms, bearing pathetic witness of the terrible experience. Near the edge of the platform rested a coffin-box, in which were enclosed the remains of what was once the general passenger agent of the Winnipeg and Duluth road—O. Sowley, The poor fellow was one of the passengers on Engineer Jim Root's ill-fated train, and the body was found yesterday morning a short distance from the burned train, but so charred and disfigured that train, but so charred and disfigured that its identity was only established by the name printed on the inside of the burned fragment of a linen collar. He had been in the habit of coming down from Duluth every Saturday to spend Sunday with his family at Merriman Park, and was on his way home when he met his death, REPORTS EXAGGERATED. The correspondent found that, notwith-standing the reports received, matters relating to the number and condition of the wounded and the necessity for supthe wounded and the necessity for supplies had been greatly exaggerated so far as Pine City was concerned. Instead of 200 wounded to be cared for there were a bare twenty, and many of these had not been seriously hurt. All the injured had been brought in, too, and it was learned that even those at Duhuth scarcely outnumbered those at Pine City. It appears that it was a clean cut case of either life or death. Most of those who excaped did so with little or no physical excaped did so with little or no physical hurt. The most severe and dangerous cases in Pine City had been taken to the improvised hospital at the rink, and here nins of the medical relief set to work while the other two men went on to Unckley. Only about twelve patients were being cared for at the rink, but all in all they presented a pitiful and he treindering spectacle. Nearly all of taltents are Scandinavians. Balley and party were unarmed, and the ghouls took to their heels, and escaped. to their heels, and escaped SEEN FOUR HOURS.

The fire was seen by the Sandstone people four hours before it struck the town, and everything was packed up in readiness to move to Kettle river, east of the village. Before any one was aware of the real danger, the fire came upon the town from the north, east, and west, and fired the whole inside of ten minutes. Many were unable to reach the river, and died in the streets. A blacksmith burned to a crisp in his shop, where he was to a crisp in his shop, where he was shoeling a horse. So sudden was the fire not a thing was saved, and in thirty minutes the whole town was swept off the earth.

Dead animals and human beings are everywhere, and they are burned wherever found. In one old well was found 25 snakes and 40 or 50 field mice, all together, alive. There were many peculiar features of the fire. In one place, where all else was burned and blackened, all around we found a wagon with the hay intact, while the borses were dead. There is yet to be closed up on the Minnesota a gap of twelve miles between Hinckley and Duluth, eight miles of which are between Hinckley and Sandstone.

A LIVE BOY IN A WELL.

A LIVE BOY IN A WELL. Judge Nethaway, of Stillwater, found the family of Jack Robinson (man, wife, and seven children) all dead, and hardly recognizable, and also found J. O. Rowley, passenger agent of the Duluth and Winnipeg. Seven miles northwest of Hinckley to-day he came to a spot where a farm-house had stool. In front was a well, and over to the left could be seen five human bodies and bodies of several animals. Judge Nethaway went at once to the well to see if any one was there, and found down in the bottom a little 12-year-old boy in eight inches of water, who had lived there since Sat-

Heavy Lumber Losses. DETROIT, MICH. September 4.—Dispatches from the upper peninsula show that the rainfall in that region yesterday and last night has effectually put a stop to the forest fires, and will be the means to the forest fires, and will be the means of saving millions of feet of pine and lots of homesteaders' crops and houses. The damage already done, however, is immense, and in many localities total loss can only be avoided by the immediate cutting of timber. There is considerable evidence that many of the fires are of incendiary origin, having been set by men who knew that the scorched pine would have to be cut at once, thus givilur them work.

Gotting After the Pullman.
CHICAGO, ILL., September 4.—Attorney-General Moloney is still after the Pullman company. He has notified its attorney that he will appear before Judge Gibbons to-morrow and ask leave to file the amended petition in the quo warranto proceedings, in which the company is asked to show cause why it should not forfeit to show cause why it should not forfeit its charter. The reasons given are that the company sells gas and water without proper authority, and also does a good business in supplying steam-heat to restdents at a large price. The company's right to speculate in lands is denied, also its privilege of operating a brick plant. The sale of liquor at the Pullman Hotel is held to be a direct violation of the law. In addition, the charges in the original petition are renewed.

Shot by a Negro Burglar.
ATLANTA, GA., September 4.-Dr. R. J. Jackson, a specialist, upon returning to his rooms, in the Hirsch building, at s o'clock to-night, found a negro burglar there. The burglar was hidden behind a portierre, Jackson then began firing at the portierre. Jackson then began firing at the negro. The burglar returned the fire, with one of the Doctor's pistols. There were ten shots in half as many seconds. Jackson was hit in the head, in the thigh, and in the leg. He tried to reach a shotgun, but was too weak. The burglar jumped through a window to a roof, and climbed down a fire-escape. He has not yet been caught. Whether he was wounded or not is unknown. Only two bullets fired by Jackson can be found. Dr. Jack-son is badly wounded. He came here from New Orleans.

They quit work and even refuse to take an interest in politics. A negro politiclan, named Jenkins, told the Gaston crowd that they were deluded. Gaston and his men got mad. Last night there was a pitched battle between the two factions. Gaston was shot in the head. Six others were wounded, but not UNIONTOWN, PA., September 4.-In this end of the Connellsville field the coke men came out to-day again, and to-night nearly all the plants south of this place are idle once more. Before the old hands went back, and pleaded poverty and peaceful latentions to the perators, they had an understanding back long enough to displace the colored men, and drive them out of the region, which would enable the original strikers to get control again. Early to-day the men began to gather at the works.
